

AAE 323: Cooperatives 2018 Course Syllabus

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Cooperative businesses exist in a wide variety of sectors within the U.S. economy, and represent a distinctive model for organizing labor, capital, and knowledge to produce goods and services. Fundamentally, a cooperative is a unique form of business ownership where users or patrons, rather than investors, are the business owners. Cooperatives are an important but often overlooked part of the U.S. economy. They provide services in many sectors, including finance, utilities, health care, housing, agriculture, and retail.

This course is designed to introduce students to the cooperative business model and to encourage them to think critically about why co-ops emerge, the ways in which they differ from other forms of enterprise, and how the model can be used to address current social and economic issues. The course will be participatory and will include individual and group assignments. Students will also be exposed to guest speakers who are leading thinkers and employers from cooperatives in key sectors.

This course is taught using a community-based learning (CBL) approach. CBL is a credit-bearing educational experience that integrates meaningful service with a community partner on a community-identified need, traditional academic content, and guided reflection. CBL aims to enhance understanding of course content while developing critical thinking skills and stronger personal and civic responsibility.

Instructor: Courtney Berner, Executive Director, UW Center for Cooperatives

Office: 235 Taylor Hall

Email: cberner@wisc.edu

Office hours: Available by appointment

Course time and location: Tuesdays & Thursdays; 1:00 – 2:15 p.m.; Microbial Sciences 1510

Mode of instruction: Face-to-face

Course credits: 3 credits. This class meets for two 75-minute class periods each week over the fall semester and carries the expectation that students will work on course learning activities (reading, writing, problem sets, studying, etc.) for about 3 hours out of classroom for every class period. The syllabus includes more information about meeting times and expectations for student work.

Course Prerequisites: None

Course Learning Outcomes: By the end of the course, students will be able to do the following:

- Understand the role and characteristics of cooperation, collective action, and cooperatives
- Exhibit knowledge of the cooperative model as it exists locally, nationally, and internationally
- Compare and contrast the cooperative model with other types of business entities
- Apply understanding of cooperative finance and governance to the management of cooperatives

Course Evaluation: There will be a total of 500 possible points in this course. The different ways of earning points are listed below.

Exams: This course will have a midterm (100 points) and a final exam (150 points). Everything covered in class or found in required readings is fair game for the exams.

Green County Project: The Green County Project will be worth a total of 150 points. Your final grade on the project will be based on self-evaluation, small group evaluation, and the final paper grade. The final paper will be worth 75 points. The remaining 75 points between the self and group evaluation.

In Class Activities: I will not take attendance, however, over the course of the semester there will be ten in class activities that you will turn in for points. Each in class activity will be worth ten points.

Optional Extra Credit Assignment: You will have the opportunity to earn 20 extra points by completing the following assignment and turning it in no later than December 11 at 1:00 p.m.

Learn About a Cooperative in Your Community: Write a 2-page paper answering the following questions for a cooperative of your choosing.

- What primary products/services does the cooperatives provide or offer?
- What led to the organization of the cooperative, and when was it established?
- Who are the members of the cooperative? What do they produce? Where are they located?
- How are members represented in this cooperative? What else can you learn about the co-op's governance structure?
- How is the cooperative performing as a business? Have sales gone up in the last few years?
- How does the business appear to be leveraging the cooperative structure?

In summary, points will be distributed as follows:

Midterm	100	points
Final exam	150	points
Green Country project	150	points
Class participation	100	points
TOTAL:	500	points

Grades: Final grades will not be curved. They will be allocated based on the following scale:

A	94+	AB	88	B	80
BC	75	C	65	D	50	F	below 50

Course Feedback: You will have the opportunity to evaluate me as well. Although it is not required, I would greatly appreciate your honest (and anonymous) thoughts and suggestions on the course.

Academic Integrity: Academic honesty is expected. Students are accountable to uphold the core values of academic integrity and comply with UW-Madison policies and state laws regarding academic misconduct. Please familiarize yourself with the potential consequences of misconduct at the webpage of the Dean of Students: <http://www.students.wisc.edu/doso/academic-integrity/>.
